

Biography of Dr Tim Lobstein

Dr Tim Lobstein is executive director of the London-based non-profit organization The Food Commission, and its sister organization The Food Information Trust. He is the European co-ordinator of the International Association of Consumer Food Organizations, an alliance which attends Codex and OECD meetings on food-related issues. Dr Lobstein is author of several books including Children's' Food: The Good, The Bad and the Useless, and The Nursery Food Book: Guidelines for Under Fives Care Staff. He is an occasional consultant for the WHO Regional Office for Europe (Food and Nutrition Security Programme) and the Association for Schools of Public Health in the European Region (EPIC Assessment Programme). His current concerns include the development of tools for assessing the impact on nutrition of agriculture policies and the rising incidence of nutrition-related diseases in children
