COMMENTS

Test report: CETIAT, Centre Technique des Industries Aéronautique et Thermiques, (April 2006)
Meets WHO requirements - WHO/IVB/05.23.

Function: SpyTemp II OMS is an electronic device, 5mm thick and credit card sized, which monitors temperature over time. Placed non-invasively with vaccine (or other perishable product), in storage or distribution for instance, it will indicate the temperature of the vaccine for up to 10 days at regular intervals. The data cannot be overwritten. An LCD screen can then display four levels of information:

- 1) OK if the temperature remained within the specified parameters at all times,
- 2) the precise time of any temperature excursion beyond the parameters indicated,
- 3) step by step, the temperatures that were recorded.
- 4) A bar cursor at the top of the screen also indicates clearly the time expired since the device was started (in days and six hour segments).

SpyTemp II OMS is supplied on a card with instructions for use and a serial number on an adhesive label that will then permit a reasoned judgment to be made, and recorded. SpyTemp II OMS can be supplied in one of two variants shown, programmed for the two duties currently specified by the WHO.
