6. Programmes and plans Help

i. Core questions Help

It should be noted that the measures identified below are not exhaustive, but reflect the spirit and intent of the Convention.

	Yes (please attach the relevant documentation) <sup>15</sup>	No
Have you developed and implemented comprehensive multisectoral national tobacco control strategies, plans and programmes? ( Article 5.1 )	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
If no, have some partial strategies, plans and programmes been developed and implemented? ( Article 5.1 )	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

If you responded yes to either of the first two questions, which of the following do these strategies, plans and programmes cover? Please check, and provide a brief summary. (Please provide the summary in one of the six official languages.)

General obligations <input type="checkbox"/> Help
5.2(a)	A national coordinating mechanism or focal point(s) for tobacco control? The main national coordinating mechanism or focal point for tobacco control is the National Tobacco Strategy 2004 -2009. The Tobacco Strategy outlines the priority areas and key strategies for tobacco control in Australia whilst the strategy has a stated goal to significantly improve health and to reduce the social costs caused by, and the inequity exacerbated by, tobacco in all its forms. The Intergovernmental Committee on Drugs (IGCD) and the Ministerial Council on Drug Strategy (MCDS) also operate as a national coordinating mechanism or focal point of tobacco control. The MCDS is the peak policy and decision making body on licit and illicit drugs in Australia. The Council is represented by the Australian and State and Territory Ministers of Health and Law Enforcement, including the Minister responsible for Education. The role of the Council is to determine national policies and programs intended to reduce drug related harm within the Australian community. The IGCD supports the MCDS by providing policy advice to Ministers on the full range of drug-related matters and is responsible for implementing the National Drug Strategic Framework. At a working level, Tobacco Policy Officers Group meetings occur regularly to track progress in each State and Territory. Membership of the group comprises the manager or a tobacco policy officer from the government sector from each of the States and Territories, the Australian Government and New Zealand. Some examples of other coalitions involved on a national level include the National Quit Group, the National Quitline Managers Committee, the Australian Network of Young People and Tobacco and the Centre for Excellence in Indigenous Tobacco Control.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
5.3	Protection of policies from the commercial and other vested interests of the tobacco industry?	<input type="checkbox"/>
Education, communication, training and public awareness <input type="checkbox"/> Help

<sup>15</sup> Please provide these documents in one of the six official languages, if possible.

12(a)	Broad access to effective and comprehensive educational and public awareness programmes on the health risks? Details below on media campaigns. Graphic health warnings on cigarette packs were introduced on 1 March 2006.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
	... targeted at adults and/or the general public? The Australian Government has developed and implemented the National Tobacco Campaign which has been in place in various forms since 1997 and includes the successful message of "every cigarette is doing you damage". State and Territory Governments have also conducted a number of mass media campaigns, especially through the Quit organisations, which promote the Quitnow message.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
	... targeted at children and youth? The Australian Government has developed a comprehensive educational and public awareness program known as the National Tobacco Youth Campaign. The campaign was launched on 26 December 2006. The campaign specifically targets youth from 12-24 years of age and smoker parents.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
12(b)	Public awareness about the health risks of tobacco consumption and exposure to tobacco smoke, and about the benefits of the cessation of tobacco use and tobacco-free lifestyles?  Public awareness about these issues is increased by the campaigns mentioned above; the introduction of the graphic health warnings; Quitline counsellors' discussions with clients; and by some non-government organisations through websites and the media.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
12(c)	Public access to a wide range of information on the tobacco industry?  Some non-government organisations (NGOs), for example the Cancer Council and the Action on Smoking and Health (Australia), have publicised the corporate irresponsibility of the tobacco industry.  The 'Tobacco Control Supersite' website provides access to an extensive range of tobacco control information including resources on tobacco statistics, the impact of smoking on health, and information on the activities of the tobacco industry to promote tobacco use. The website is published and maintained by Prof Simon Chapman of the School of Public Health, University of Sydney. Further information on the 'Tobacco Control Supersite' is available at http://tobacco.health.usyd.edu.au/site/supersite/overview/docs/index.htm	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
12(e)	Awareness and participation of public and private agencies and nongovernmental organizations not affiliated with the tobacco industry in developing and implementing intersectoral programmes and strategies for tobacco control?  Tobacco control activities throughout Australia require strong partnerships and ongoing commitment among stakeholders at the Australian Government, State and Territory, and community levels. Stakeholders include the Australian Government Department of Health and Ageing, State and Territory Departments of Health, local Area Health Services, non-government organisations, professional health associations, local community based agencies, university academics, consumers and media organisations.  Non-government organisations such as the Cancer Council, National Heart Foundation of Australia and Action on Smoking and Health (ASH) are key partners in tobacco control activities.  The development of the National Tobacco Strategy 2004-2009 involved wide consultation with a number of stakeholders which included representatives from State and Territory Health Departments, local Area Health Services and a number of non-government organisations such as the Cancer Council, ASH and the National Heart Foundation.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

14.1	Comprehensive and integrated guidelines based on scientific evidence and best practices to promote cessation of tobacco use and adequate treatment for tobacco dependence? The Quitline service operated separately in each State/Territory provides confidential telephone counselling to assist smokers to quit smoking. The Quitline also provides a call back service in some areas that involves a number of follow up phone calls throughout the quitting process. Guidelines have been developed to assist health professionals to provide evidence-based brief intervention advice to clients who smoke, as part of their routine clinical practice (Attachment H - Smoking Cessation Guidelines for Australian General Practice). Guidelines for treatment of nicotine dependence in pregnancy and for mental health clients are currently being developed. Smoking Lifescripts resources have also been developed as part of a package of resources designed for General Practitioners to assist patients when providing lifestyle advice. There are five resources in the package including Smoking, Nutrition, Alcohol, Physical Activity and Weight Management. The package includes guidelines and an assessment pad for the doctor, and a prescription pad for the patient (Attachment I, J, K). NSW Health wrote the national competency standards for smoking cessation interventions for the National Population Health Training Package and is currently developing learning and assessment materials for the two units of competency.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
14.2(d)	Facilitation of accessibility and affordability for treatment of tobacco dependence including pharmaceutical products? The principal medical products to increase success rates of quitting smoking are nicotine replacement therapy (NRT) and bupropion. NRT can be purchased over the counter and does not require a medical prescription. Four forms of NRT: patch; lozenge; sublingual tablet; and gum can be provided by non-pharmacists. Some products are available in supermarkets. A prescription from a medical practitioner is required to purchase bupropion (Zyban). The Australian Government subsidises the cost of bupropion.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

8. Priorities for implementation of the WHO Framework Convention on Tobacco Control  Help

What are the priority areas for implementation of the WHO Framework Convention on Tobacco Control in your jurisdiction? (Ref. Article 21.1(b))

The implementation of the National Tobacco Strategy 2004 – 2009 outlines the priority areas and key strategies for tobacco control in Australia.

The goal is to significantly improve health and to reduce the social costs caused by, and the inequity exacerbated by, tobacco in all its forms.

The objectives of the Strategy are, across all social groups: to prevent uptake of smoking; to encourage and assist as many smokers as possible to quit as soon as possible; to eliminate harmful exposure to tobacco smoke among non-smokers; and where feasible, to reduce harm associated with continuing use of and dependence on tobacco and nicotine.

The National Tobacco Strategy is a comprehensive approach to reducing tobacco-related harm.

Jurisdictions will:

- further use regulation to reduce the use of, exposure to, and harm associated with tobacco;
- increase promotion of Quit and Smokefree messages;
- improve the quality of, and access to, services and treatment for smokers;
- provide more useful support to parents, carers and educators helping children to develop a healthy lifestyle;
- endorse policies that prevent social alienation associated with uptake of high risk behaviours such as smoking, and advocate policies that reduce smoking as a means of addressing disadvantage;
- tailor messages and services to ensure access by disadvantaged groups; and
- obtain the information we need to fine-tune our policies and programs.

What, if any, are the constraints or barriers you have encountered in implementing the Convention? (ref. Article 21.1(b))

None
